implacable. Both shows played the same cities, and each made tremendous efforts to show at the desired points first. The amount of pictorial paper used to advertise these "opposition stands," as they were called, was something appalling when it came to pay the bills, and the general expense was so great that profits for either show were often impossible.

W. D. Coxey, who was for tweive years with Ringling Bros. circus, and more recently has been associated with the Barnum & Balley show, chatted, last evening in regard to this rapprochement between the two big shows.

Control a Third Circus.

Coptrol a Third Circus.

The agreement between the Barnum, & Balley and Ringling shows has been a great surprise to the circus, world, and Mr. Coxey, "and yet it was brought about in a very simple way. For several years James A. Balley held a large interest in the Sells-Forepaugh circus, Last year one of the last two remaining Sells brothers died, and some time ago the show was put up at public sale. Mr. Balley bought it in, and at ence began negotiations with Ringling Bros, to buy a half interest in the show. His propesition was accepted, and the two circus managements which, up to that time, became partners. Being associated in the ownership of a third big circus, it was necessary to route it in such a way as not to bring it into competition with the other two, and in doing this it was also essential that the Barnum & Bailey and Ringling shows should not come in conflict. The sequel was inevitable. It was determined to divide the territory in such a way that none of the three shows would conflict. The sequel was inevitable. It was also determined to divide the territory in such a way that none of the three shows would conflict.

"Under the original agreement it was also of the content of the three shows would conflict."

way that none of the three shows would inflict.

"Under the original agreement it was anned that for the current season, the arnum & Balley circus should have season, the arnum & Balley circus should have been companied by the season of the season of the season of the financial condition of the cestern country, and so mainy letters cestern country, and so mainy letters cestern country, and so mainy letters reports of the financial condition of the western country, and so many letters were received at the New Yprk office expressing the hope that the show would cross the divide that he proposed a change of territory with Ringling Bros. As the latter made the coast trip last year, and the Barnum & Bailey show had never been west of Denver since Mr. Bailey's association with, it, this was considered a wise move, and the shift was readily made. In other years Mr. Bailey hesitated to cross the mountains owing to the magnitude of that show and the long jumps required, but the general improvement of the important western railroads and the splendid equipment that has been introduced in recent years has convinced him that the coast trip is feasible even with his massive show.

Show Making First Trip West. "As a fesult amu ment lovers of this section of the country will see this famous circus in all its completeness, sixt as it is given in the east. This includes the latest sensational feature, the Dip of Death, in which a young woman loops the gap in an automobile; the new Durbar spectacle; an entire European triple-ring circus, a splendid menageric and an exciting revival of the sports and pastimes of old Rome.

"While the Barnum & Bailey show is making its trans-mountain tour, the Ringing show will cover in New England, Canada, New York state, Ohio and Illicois. The Sells-Forepaugh show will confine itself to Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, canada, New York state, Ohio and Illinois. The Sells-Forepaugh show will confine itself to Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Michigan and the northwest.

"The arrangement between the Shows, although in operation only a short time; is working admirably. It has worked no hardship to employes for salaries are higher than ever this year, but it has prevented a wasteful use of pictorial paper and foolish extravagance in giving away free passes—which was one of the worst evils of the circus war. It means less wear and tear on agents and bill posters, and promotes a more general feeling of kindliness between the handreds of employes with the three shows. Barnum & Bailey will continue to open the annual spring season at Madison Square garden. New York, and Ringlings will inaugurate their tours at the Coliseum in Chicago, but outside of these cities there is apt to be a mutual agreement in regard to the division of territory for several years to come."

DEMAND.

The greatest circus war that the United States has ever known has come to an end. Instead of antagonism and a perpetual fight for territory between the Barnum & Bailey and Ringling circuses, a community of interests now exists between these great shows. Instead of each battling for the advantage, the big shows now work together for the interest and benefit of both.

Owing to the great expense of crossing the divide, Sait Lake City has never seen a battle royal between the Titans of the circus world, but in the eastern states the rivalry between the two big shows was for many years fierce and implacable. Both shows played the same cities, and each made tremendous efforts to show at the desired points first. The amount of pictorial paper used to advertise these "opposition stands," as they were called, was something appalling when it came to pay the bills, and the general expense was so great that profits for either show were often impossible. B. P. O. Elks are completing arrangements for their excursion to be run to Salt Lake tomorrow to take part in the celebration by the Salt Lake lodge. Purple day is being extensively advertised here and while the locals were unable to get down for the bir parade to be held on the evening of the 26th they will take the celebration up where it is left off this to venling and so afread with it in good shape tomorrow. Just what action will be taken in the important matter of mule driver for Park City lodge has not yet been decided, as the local feanister is very sick and will not be able to be along with the local herd. In the face of the great disappointment the locals feel that they will be able to make some sort of a show in the race, for their are several, who while not as capable in the line as the exalted ruler, who was to have done the work, are anxious to keep up the exceptionally good name borne by Park City lodge and will certainly drive the muie. The selection of a substitute will doubtless be by lot.

BOYS RESORT TO CRUEL TORTURE

Guilty of Vicious Practices.

THE TERRITORY IS DIVIDED LEMONS COME IN SLOWER SPARROWS MAIN VICTIMS

TO MAKE ARRESTS.

Aggravated cruelty to animals is becoming so frequent, especially among boys of good families, that the authorities are threatening to begin a crusade. The sparrow bounty is named by B. B. Mann, humane officer, as one of the apparent causes for malicious destruction of life and ugly maining of helpless birds. At the same time the humane officer has come into contact with other instances of shoking maltreatment of dumb brutes.

The strange feature of the whole affair lies in the fact that most of the culprits are boys between the ages of 8 and 14 years, well dressed and from good homes. Equipped with, .22-calibre rifles and air guns these youngsters have been in the habit of killing birds, and that pastime becoming too citl. they have begun to seek excitement for their jaded senses of pleasure by methods of torture.

A number of these instances were recently brought to the notice of the humane officer. He investigated the cases, expecting to find poorly clothed rowdies without good home bringing up, the malefactors. Instead he ran across a group of neatly clothed boys whose parents, when he came to in-terview them, turned out to be eminently respectable householders, most of them having means. The parents ex-pressed surprise at what had been happening and complete ignorance of borhoods until complaints were the re actions which had stirred their neigh-

Found Torturing Sparrows.

An instance of this sort came to light in the east end. Along Twelfth East street between First and Third South streets the youth of the neighborhood were found amusing themselves by a highly scientific species of torture, which they had devised. Sparrows were their victims. They got the little brown birds, generally by maiming them with rubber "slingshots." Once captured, a bird was doomed to slow death, A big firecracker was buried with its fuse exposed. Over the cracker the bird was buried with earth alive. The fuse was lighted. The explosion invariably sent the fluffy little cluster of feathers well up fy little cluster of feathers well up into the air. It always fell, quivering, close enough so that the boys could gather around it and watch its agongather around it and watch its agonies: then, if there was enough life to make it worth while, bury it again over a mine similar to the other.
District Attorney F. C. Loofbourow-called the attention of the humane officer to this and the practice was at once stopped in that neighborhood. Colonel Mann states that he intends to prosecute similar offenders if any are found. are found.

Boys Carry Firearms.

The sparrow bounty was given by these boys as an excuse for their wovel method of seeking amusement.

All of which brings up another side to the story. The police department about once a mouth has a round-up of youths who make this sparrow bounty an excuse for carrying around fire arms and air guns and shooting indiscriminately in the residence disfire arms and air guns and shooting indiscriminately in the residence districts. Every so often a boy goes to the hospital with a small leaden bullet lodged in his person. Sometimes the thing ends in a funeral. In spite of constant watching on the part of mounted officers this practice of carrying and using fire arms within the city limits is indulged in every day, according to residents of the outer districts. tricts.
